Special Issue on Multimedia Security and Privacy (MSP)

Theme and Scope

Multimedia technologies are vital in many areas of computing and networks, and privacy and security issues are emerging rapidly as a key problem area in such systems. Thus, this special issue (SI) of The Computer Journal solicits the submission of papers on state-of-the-art research in multimedia security and privacy. In particular, extended versions of papers presented at the following conferences: MPIS 2009, <http://www.ftg.org/MPIS2009/>, and CSA 2009, <http://www.ftg.org/CSA2009/>, are encouraged to submit to this special issue. The extended version of paper must have at least 30% fresh material over and above the corresponding conference paper. Submissions should be high-quality original unpublished research articles, not currently under review for another journal or conference.

Instructions for Authors

Submissions must conform to the layout, format and page limit guidelines of The Computer Journal. Authors must follow the guidelines provided in http://www.oxfordjournals.org/our_journals/computer_journal/for_authors/index.html, and should be submitted via <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/compj>. A copy of submitted papers should also be forwarded in PDF format by email to: Prof. Shiuh-Jeng Wang sjwang@mail.cpu.edu.tw with "SI Submission – MSP, The Computer Journal" as the subject. The submission must include a cover letter containing the title, abstract, authors and the corresponding author's name and affiliation along with the manuscript. All papers will be rigorously refereed based on originality, high scientific quality, organisation and relevance to this special issue. For further questions or inquiries, you may also contact: Prof. Chin-Feng Lee at the following email address lcf@cyut.edu.tw.
